With regard to the matter at hand I can provide the following information: on 15 August 1943, two Polish partisans, my son Stefan's friends, came to our house and took him with them. I know that one of them is called Mikołajewski and lives in Kleszczyn. I don't know the other one. They all went to the woods in the direction of Siekierno. Only one month later did I learn that my son Stefan Herman was killed on 20 August 1943 in Kleszczyn, near the woods, on the road leading to Siekierno. He was killed by German gendarmes from Skarżysko Kamienna. Their names haven't been established. Stanisław Beroz from Berezów and two other unknown partisans were killed that day along with my son Stefan. I am not familiar with the circumstances of their death. I am simply reporting what I have learned from other people. I wish to note that after killing the men of whom I am talking here the Germans ordered the former village administrator Antoni Tuszniow from Kleszczyn to bury the dead just where they had been killed. After the liberation the bodies of these four men were reburied in the cemetery in Suchedniow.

At this the report was concluded, read out and signed.
