During the German occupation, from the end of 1942 until the uprising in 1944, I worked at the Schmidt and Müsterman company, located at Konopnicka Street in Warsaw. The firm did the bricklaying work on the grounds of the ghetto (in particular, it built the wall around the ghetto). I transported building materials and sanitation parts to the camp in Poniatowa.

I don't remember the name Brand. But if he was on the premises of the ghetto when I worked there, I could certainly recognize him.

Kazimierz Niedzielski worked as an office worker at the Müsterman company. I do not know his current whereabouts.

More information about the ghetto administrators can be provided by Woźniak (currently working at SPB in Warsaw) who worked on the grounds of Poniatowa camp during German occupation, and by engineer Dźwikowski.

At this point the report was brought to a close and read out.
