My husband wasn't employed anywhere, but he engaged in trading activities from time to time. On 23 June 1944, my husband was taken from our flat by the German Gestapo.

On 6 July 1944, my husband and many other people were executed at the Stadium (in Piaski).

When my husband was taken from our flat, he was incarcerated in Kielce prison, from where together with other people, he was taken to the Stadium and executed.

My husband worked for the underground Home Army as a quartermaster for the Kielce area and he was denounced to the Gestapo by agent provocateur Mączyński.

It is not known whether the execution was carried out in retaliation. The execution was carried out by the Gestapo. As for the surnames of the Gestapo men, I know the surname of their head, Esig, but I don't know any other surnames.

The corpses were buried at the execution site. In 1945 the corpses were exhumed and buried in the cemetery of resistance fighters.

At this point the report was concluded, read out and signed.
